

The Value of State Offices of Outdoor Recreation (ORECs)

The Outdoor Recreation Economy

Outdoor recreation is an economic driver.

The Bureau of Economic Analysis estimates that outdoor recreation (defined as 'all recreational activities undertaken for pleasure that occur outdoors') generates $1.1 trillion in economic output and supports 5 million jobs—many of which are in rural communities. In 2022, outdoor recreation comprised 2.2 percent of the United States GDP. In 2018, over 318 million national park visits led to $20.2 billion in direct spending at hotels, restaurants, outfitters, and other amenities in nearby gateway communities, supporting over 329,000 jobs and generating over $40.1 billion in total economic output.

States that prioritize outdoor recreation create jobs.

Nineteen states employ more than 100,000 people in the outdoor recreation economy, and California and Florida each employ more than 500,000 people. Outdoor recreation provides diverse opportunities across the employment spectrum, from guides and outfitters to retail sales and customer service, to sourcing and manufacturing, to business strategy and branding. Importantly, outdoor recreation generates jobs across all sectors, as companies seek to put down roots near outdoor recreation locations that enable a strong work-life balance for their employees.

Investing in outdoor recreation pays off.

For instance, in Methow Valley, Washington, every $1 spent to develop and operate the trail system supports economic activity resulting in $6 in direct wages and compensation for local workers. In Montana, $50 million in state investments on fishing access points has generated $900 million per year in spending by anglers. Research from Headwaters Economics demonstrates that outdoor recreation amenities:

- draw visitors who spend money at local businesses
- attract new talent and investment
- increase property values
- improve quality of life and public health, especially in low-income neighborhoods
